Dear Sirs,

I received with great pleasure your Quarterly News Letters for the last quarter of 1957 and the first of 1958.

You ask for possible news of interest. The one here is that I am practically building a half-spontaneous but not yet formal study group in Paris around the translation into French of the Urantia Book.

Last week, I had personally completed in handwriting the translation of the entire First Part. One half of it has already been corrected and typewritten. I am now starting with the Second Part.

I had hired a translator for the Third Part, but her first sixty pages did not qualify her for continuing.

And also I have another translator who has started the work of the Fourth Part. She is so deeply interested that she will carry this part to the end in proper time if her frail health permits.

Although it is perhaps very anticipatory, I am studying the possibilities of publication in France a few years from now. I noticed that in the very broad American market it has taken you several years to sell less than 3,000 copies, which does not preclude a brighter future. But what about the narrower market of French reading students, with their financially limited purchasing power? It is quite a problem and would probably only be solved by dividing the book in three and lowering correspondingly the purchase price.

However, it is not the present day's problem, and any comment from your side on the surplus of this letter would be welcome.

the rest*
Sincerely yours,

J. Weiss
